

IT'S NOT THE HEAT IT'S THE HUMIDITY

Ionization Smoke Detectors don't like muggy weather. They can mistake high humidity for smoke, which means an increase in false alarms.

We've got you covered with our line of photoelectric smoke detectors that compensate for environmental change. They differentiate between humidity and smoke much more accurately, which greatly reduces false alarms.

Contact us today to find out how we can help.

TRUEALARM PHOTOELECTRIC SENSORS combine smoke and heat sensing in one detector, providing the earliest fire detection and the virtual elimination of false alarms.
